INFORMATION SOUGHT ON LINGHOLM (KESWICK) CHURCH

I have been asked by the new owners of Lingholm house, at Portinscale, near Keswick, the former home of Lord and Lady Rochdale, to tell them about the Christian Science church that the Rochdales created within the building in the 1950s, and also about the ornamental garden they have found there that was created by the Rochdales in memory of their daughter Bryony after she passed away following a riding accident in September 1963. I remember attending a service at the Keswick church at Easter 1962 along with 30 young Christian Scientists from the Birmingham and Liverpool Youth Forums who were camping at Coniston. I should be grateful to hear from any of those, together with any other people who attended any service(s) at the church, either as local members or visitors, from about 1953 until 1963 when it closed. I am looking for any memories, info or pictures of the church or garden which can help me prepare a historical note for the new owners about this unique part not only of Lingholm history but also of church history.

People may know me as a frequent contributor to the Christian Science periodicals and as the author of a number of publications on Christian Science church history. These include the seminal "Key Dates in the Early History of Christian Science in the British Isles", copies of which can still be obtained from me (for £10). Among other histories still available is "The Inspiring History of the Christian Science Group on the Island of Malta G.C." (for £7). I also still have available (at £10) some copies of my book "An American President's Love Affair with the English Lake District", which won the Lakeland Book of the Year Award in 1997 and which includes the story of his friendship with the Yates family of Rydal, pioneer Christian Scientists in the area. I have a web site for this, with more details at: www.dedicate.co.uk/wilson. Please contact me at the above address with your order(s) for any copies of these publications.
